CASE WILL BE WATCHED

IN MAY SOUTHERN STATES

The case to be carried from Richmond to the Pederal Supreme Court will be watched with interest not only in this State, but in Maryland, Missouri, Colorado and other States, where State and municipal laws affecting domical laws affecting domical collary race segregation are now enforced.

The court, in its opinion, holds that segregation ordinances which are intended to operate as bonn fide police regulations are reasonably, and do not unduly interfere with private rights, are constitutional. The monument was made possible by a congressional appropriation, as segregated district if the property to the occupied was purchased before the segregation ordinance went into effect.
